

There are hidden opportunities waiting to be found – regardless of the national economy or popular news stories

Summary: The new book "Income Without a Job" is filled with step-by-step tips for creating income beyond a typical 8 to 5 job. Covering both debt reduction and income expansion, this book is filled with ideas that help the average person create their own Personal Economic Recovery Plan.

Lacey, WA: Michael Anthony and Barbara Taylor have written a very timely book, Income Without a Job, for the average person who wants to have a better future than just an 8-to-5 job that makes someone else rich. Their ideas are based on many years of working with small business owners as well as government and business employees in many different industries and walks of life.

The purpose of Income Without a Job is to focus on the future, instead of the past. Everyone has the power within them to create their own future if they are only willing to listen to it.

Income Without a Job is filled with practical tips for nurturing those dreams that live inside of all of us and for finding opportunities that others miss. Income Without a Job guides the reader through exercises to identify ways to eliminate debt, to find the types of ideas that will work best for them, where their strengths are and then, how to use that information in a step-by-step way to creating a better financial future that will work regardless of what is happening in the financial markets.

“How well you manage to change will determine how well you manage to succeed,” says Michael.

The American public has voted overwhelming for “change” – and who knows exactly what that means right now or how quickly it will affect the average person’s daily life. The government certainly can’t solve all our problems for us. It’s up to us to do what we can to improve our own situation.

Income Without a Job provides a step-by-step way for the average person to create their own Personal Economic Recovery Plan. In the midst of the stock market freefall, the collapse of the financial system, the murkiness of the housing market and the uncertainty of the future, our greatest opportunities and our brightest future are ahead of us. Our greatest ideas are waiting to be uncovered; the dreams that live inside us are waiting to be nurtured so they can bring us into the new world that we all hope for. This is very good news!

“Diamonds are created under great pressure.” And, through the use of the tools in Income Without a Job, anyone can change the way their life unfolds in the future.

Whether you are now comfortable in a secure job, facing retirement in a few years or not sure what you want to do with your life, Income Without a Job can help you find new ways of seeing the world and unleashing the incredible power of creativity that lives within each of us. We have so many possible areas where creativity can be applied — the possibilities are almost endless — if we are only willing to take a look at life in a slightly different way. Income Without a Job provides that way in an easy-to-understand format.

Published by Lulu.com, Income Without a Job is available now directly from the publisher. Income Without a Job will be available shortly from national retailers such as Amazon, Barnes and Noble, and in local libraries. Ask your local bookstore or library to order a copy if it is not yet there.

Author Michael Jay Anthony is well known for his Organizational Development work, his unique corporate training techniques and inspiring public speaking. As a public speaker and trainer, Michael has always received great reviews from workshop attendees. His personal style seems relaxed and fun, yet his presentations are filled with powerful teaching to help people manage their lives in ways that are more productive. Michael has one of those smooth “radio voices” that we hear and wonder, “who is that?” When Michael talks, people naturally stop and listen to what he has to say.

Co-Author Barbara J. Taylor understands the needs of small business owners and entrepreneurs, as well as line managers and employees in large companies and government organizations. She was appointed to start the first privately funded business development center in California, where she and Michael went on to work with more 1,000 small businesses. Barbara’s current company, Rainbows & Miracles etc, focuses on Creativity and Inspiration at Work, inspiring people to find creative solutions to every-day challenges in the workplace. One of the ways she does this is through her Institute for Management Excellence (www.itstime.com) website – It’s Time for New Ways of Doing Business.
